TALK OF AN EXTRA SESSION.

State of the Government's Finances Causing Much Worry

Washington, D. C. Sept. 15. Notwithstanding talk is revived of an extra session to provide additional revenue to meet the large treasury deficit, it is not clear just how this can be accomplished, even should such extra session be called. The House would undoubtedly pass a revenue bill on the lines of the Dingley bill, which passed last session, but it would meet with the same fate in the Senate as it did heretofore, since the silver Republicans.hold the balance of power in that body, and would demand silver legislation as a condition precedent to passing any revenue meas-
